

BULLDOGS HAVE THEIR DAY AT LAST

Breeders' Association Has Many Exhibitors at Annual Show.

CINTRA JOHN SCORES OVER DREAMWOLD BOY

But Judge's Decision Does Not Meet with Universal Approval.

The hollow mockery of a prize winning expedition was reflected in a hundred canine faces at the Albemarle-Hoffman yesterday when the members of the Bulldog Breeders' Association involuntarily entertained their admirers at their eighteenth open show.

In spite of the fact that Daniel Ritchey had sacrificed several partitions with a view to benching the dogs in comfort, one could have wished that the space allotted to the judging ring had been greater, or else that three-quarters of the spectators had stayed at home. However, if gate receipts show which way the wind blows, the English bulldog is the most popular of dogs.

It was worthy of note that there was scarcely a single absentee, and Vinton P. Breese, the judge, had his hands full in disposing of the regular classes during the afternoon. The awarding of the specials, of which there were nearly a hundred and fifty, threatened, like Tenyson's brook, to go on forever, and even the most devoted of the spectators finally left the ring and Mr. Breese was left alone with his steward and his dogs.

Mr. Breese's awards did not suit every one, but, then, where is the judge who can undertake this colossal task? In the winners' class for dogs Mr. Breese chose John E. Horrax's Cintra John, a Kilburn Mechanic dog, to wear the blue over Thomas W. Lawson's champion Dreamwold Boy. This caused much comment, and Mr. Breese himself acknowledged that there was little to choose between the two gladiators of the show ring. Mr. Breese went in at all times for soundness, compactness of build and an even balance. Irish Boy was better in cushion and foreface, but John is lower in body and has better hooks. At least, so said the oracle. When Irish Boy was interviewed on the subject he said: "Noblesse oblige, you know; I can't say anything, but my hooks are not a bit too straight to feel comfortable."

First choice in bitches was Lassiecab, and while every one was ready to acknowledge her worth it was something of a surprise when she defeated Mrs. Allison M. Lederer's champion Florence Rhonda. Lassiecab was shown at the Westminster show and she won in her class, but she was not put down in the splendid form of yesterday. The champion Florence Rhonda, reserve winner, is too well known to need any description. Florence is an old favorite of Mr. Breese's, and he declared that it was not that he loved Lassiecab less but Lassiecab more.

The puppies were a wonderful lot, and any one of the first four dogs might have taken the blue without causing any comment. The winner, Richmond Rodney, is a big brindle of good type, and just beat out Daddy Dial on hooks. The red ribbon winner was good all over, and many picked him for first choice.

In the young bitches the winner, Rockcliffe Queen Bery was a tiny thing, but perfect in every detail. She is a miniature replica of her distinguished papa, Ch. Hewlett King Orry.

The awards follow:

Class 1 (puppies): dogs—First, Frank K. Pierson, Jr.'s, Richmond Rodney; second, Dr. Roy H. Peck's, Daddy Dial; third, John A. Dono's, Mugdig; fourth, Paul Scardon's, Buster Beaming.

Cat and Dog Life Belies Its Name at Oradell

Fido and Tom Agree to Mediate All Their Old Controversies.

TABBIES FIND REST FROM BRAIN FAG

Home First Founded by Miss Cathcart to House One of Her Pets.

When one wishes to convey the idea of no harmony at all one refers to a "cat and dog" existence, but this does not include the inmates of the Black short-haired cattery at Oradell, N. Y.

Here the felines and the canines mingle and enjoy one long holiday, and although the hostility was originally planned as a home for pampered pussies which were suffering from brain fag, they have very generously shared their home with Fido, and they do not make him lead a dog's life, either.

In providing places where one might board one's dogs and horses, no one seemed to consider that pussy might like a place where she could spend her vacation. It seemed to be the order of things that when the rest of the family went away for the summer the feline members of the family were supposed to forage in garbage cans for their food in the daytime and spend the evenings on the fence, "making night hideous" for the neighbors.

Furthermore, they were supposed to enjoy this nomadic sort of existence, although those who know them best say that cats are quite as devoted to their friends as are dogs.

Miss Jane Cathcart, who founded the cattery at Oradell did so, she says, because it was impossible to find a home for her cat when she went abroad, and she was no trouble about the horses or the dogs, but nobody wanted to undertake the care of Tommaso Scatto.

There was only one thing to do, and Miss Cathcart did that. She bought a small plot in the center of a farm at Oradell, put up a portable bungalow, and hired a keeper—all for one little cat of the common, or garden, variety. Since then it has grown and grown, until now it is one of the show places of the country. So many persons owning pet cats were ready to take advantage of the chance offered them to board their pets for the summer that the second season found the quarters considerably enlarged.

It was the third season before dogs were allowed to enter—and then a prospective boarder of the genus catus refused to be separated from his friend Fido. After some discussion Fido was taken on probation, and now half of the inmates of the cattery are dogs.

Mrs. Harriet V. Furness, who has won a national reputation because she has been able to portray the character of animals with the camera, as well as with the brush, is secretary of the cattery. Every one who has anything to do with the cattery, the felines and the canines must love animals. That is the first requisite, and in this Miss Cathcart is indeed to be commended, for no one who does not really care for animals can be successful with them.

Mrs. Curry, who is manager of the kennel, is an animal lover in the best and truest sense of the word. She was the wife of the late Dr. W. W. Curry.

All the work is done under the personal supervision of the indefatigable manager, Mrs. Curry.

TO VISIT FOREIGN KENNELS ON TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Horrax and Mr. and Mrs. Drew Will Go to Dog Shows.

Mr. and Mrs. John Horrax and Mr. and Mrs. William Drew will sail for Europe next Saturday.

They will take in the Bulldog Club and the Ladies' Kennel Association shows in London, then go to Paris for the big show which will be held there on June 1. From Paris they will go to Munich and up the Rhine to Cologne, where a dog show will be held on June 7.

The Redhill show, on June 10, will call them back to England, and from there they intend taking in all of the important shows up to the time of sailing home, July 18.

Mr. Horrax has been invited to judge bulldogs at the big Wirral and Birkenhead champion show, June 24 and 25. This is a great honor, as it is one of the oldest shows in England.

The Long Island Kennel Club has added whippet racing to the other attractions for its show at the Sheephead Bay race track, on May 30. Whippets entered in the regular classes are eligible to compete in the races.

There will be no entry fee and entries will be received the day of the show. The club will offer a handsome cup to the winner of these races.

A special train will leave the Pennsylvania station at 9 a. m. for the show grounds, and will return to the city at the conclusion of the judging. Entries will close on Friday with Wilbur H. Purcell, 23 Broadway.

Wissahickon Club Plans an All-Terrier Show

Well Known Judges Will Be in Charge of Devon Exhibition for Fine Dogs.

The all-terrier show of the Wissahickon Club, which will be held at St. Martin's, Chestnut Hill, Penn., on June 6, promises to be the best all-terrier show ever given.

It is a money show, of $5, $3 and $2 as prize money, and a full classification is provided, divided by sex.

In connection with the all-terrier show the Irish Terrier Club is giving its annual specialty show, with William Prescott Wolcott as the officiating judge. The specialty club is giving a full classification for the Irishman, with $15, $10 and $5 as prize money on a $5 entry fee.

Besides the regular class money, a special prize of $5 in cash or plate is offered for the first winner in each class by individuals, and the Irish Terrier Club is offering a prize of $5 for the second prize winner in each class.

George Foley announces the list of judges for the Devon show, which will be held on the beautiful club grounds at Devon, Penn., on June 13. The slate shows many innovations, as well as the return of some of the best known judges of the American bench possesses.

Patrick Tully is down for collies, and as the breed is a representative one at the summer shows much interest is centered in his selection, as well as his subsequent placings, of so important a breed.

New Figures Likely for Long Island Dog Show

Great Entry List Reported for Display Scheduled for Mineola, June 3 and 4.

Arrangements are well under way for the twelfth annual summer show of the Ladies' Kennel Association of America, which will be held at Mineola on June 3 and 4.

The exhibition promises to be larger this year than ever before, and it has already attained the distinction of being second to none in the country, with the exception of the Westminster Kennel Club show. The officers of the association are Miss Anna Sands, president; Mrs. H. M. Harriman, vice-president; Mrs. Perry Belmont, treasurer, and Miss M. C. Wickes, secretary.

There is a wonderful array of challenge cups and trophies, which are open to all, and are to be won outright. The committee is made up of Miss Lucille Alger, Miss Bird and Miss Sands. The members of the council are Miss Lucille Alger, Mrs. Perry Belmont, Miss Bird, Miss Louise Grace, Mrs. M. E. Harby, Mrs. Clifford B. Harmon, Mrs. H. M. Harriman, Mrs. George H. Pell, Miss Sands, Mrs. C. R. Scott, Mrs. Judah H. Sears, Mrs. M. Taylor and Mrs. W. Cauer Wiedersheim.

Among the foreign judges who are well known is George Miller, brother of E. D. Miller, the polo player. He comes from Rugby, England, and is to judge beagles and beagle packs. Midgeley Marsdon, of Whaley Bridge, England, has also a large consignment, and J. J. Holgate, of Doncaster, England, will take charge of the classes of terriers and the Pomeranians. The premium list consists of 99 cash prizes of $20, $10, $5 and $2.50, and 117 open classes, with prizes of $5 and $2.50. There are 123 winners classes, and balance of the classes, nearly 500, and have a special prize of $5 for the best in each class containing four or more competitors.

The prizes in cash will amount to $10,000, and the value of the cups will be about that amount. The clubs offering prizes include the Bloodhound Club, Great Dane Club, the Russian Blue and White Club, the Scottish Deerhound Club, the Greyhound Club, the Pointer Club, the English Setter Club, the American Spaniel Club, the Cocker Spaniel Club, the Collie Club, the Dachshund Club, German Shepherd Dog Club, the English Sheepdog Club, the Akita Club of Long Island, the Pomeranian Club, the Japanese Club, and the Maltese Club.

Since the publication of the premium lists a number of specials have been offered. They include cups presented by Morris Kinney, R. R. Littlefield, J. E. Buchanan, Mrs. Frank Piers, A. Verona Jarbeau and the Blue Kennels. A score of clubs have prizes as well.

Entries will close on Thursday, June 4, at 10 o'clock. The show will be held at the Mineola Hotel, Mineola, L. I. Henry J. Blair, proprietor of the hotel, has with him at present the most famous dog in the world, the "Blue Boy," imported from Mrs. George M. deers, who will use the dog for personal protection. Ask to take in his other lessons, a course in English.
